Polite Notice

Yet again it has been reported by our conscientious dog walkers that they are having to pick up dog poop left by the dogs of inconsiderate dog walkers. As there is a 'dog poop' bin in the village, located on the green by the 'bus stop' it is completely unacceptable, inconsiderate, unpleasant, can spread disease and it is an offence to NOT pick up after your dog.

So, please scoop the poop and bin it!!

Thank you

History of Treverva and Lamanva 2

The road between Helston and Penryn would have carried granite from quarries in Constantine for transportation by sea from Penryn to many parts of the world in the nineteenth century and the century before. In the 1750's great granite blocks 'from ½ ton in size but none to exceed 2 tons' would have passed through Treverva on their way to be shipped for the building of the second Eddystone Lighthouse. John Smeaton, the builder, had heard of a granite merchant in Constantine who could supply particularly fine moorstone 'of a quality better both to cleave and work', Smeaton travelled by horseback from Falmouth to visit Matthew Box of Treglidwith in Constantine, the granite merchant. Later, Matthew Box moved to Treworval in that parish, and one concludes that supplying granite for the lighthouse has brought some prosperity to the family. It was the granite trade, also, that was responsible for the growth of Treverva, when cottages were built for the workers, in the next century, by which time Treverva had become three separate tenements. With the building of the Argal Dam, commenced in 1939, and the flooding of the valley below, the aspect of Treverva changed and in 1966 it became part of the parish of Mabe, whose church had always been much nearer than that of Budock, some 3 ½ miles distant
